Leaving Niort, the Véridéale shares the ride to the town of Parthenay with another western French cycle route, La Vélo Francette. At the level of Echiré, gourmets among you may wish to leave the route to stop at the Atelier de l'Excellence du Beurre d'Echiré (dedicated to the fine butter made here, and its multiple uses), while later on, all will want to admire the Château du Coudray-Salbart as you reach Ternanteuil. The stage ends at Champdeniers-St-Denis, which has some small-scale architectural delights for you to uncover.

The route

The route is signposted both for the La Véridéale and La Vélo Francette on this stage taking you to Parthenay. Much of the time you'll cycle on roads with motorized traffic, although there are stretches along farm tracks too. Before reaching Breilbon, there is a significant slope to tackle.

Links with the V43 (La Vélo Francette) and the V94

In Niort, it's possible to join the Vélo Francette route which connects Ouistreham, on the Normandy, Channel coast, with La Rochelle on France's Atlantic coast. Or you can join the V94 cycle route from Echiré, cycling off towards Saint-Maixent-l'École in the Haut Val de Sèvre area.
